All major surgical operations involve some interference with the patient's nutrition. It is frequently necessary to curtail or completely abolish intake of food by mouth for varying periods for surgical pa-

If this disturbance of normal food intake lasts only a few days and, in the meantime, the patient's fluid intake is kept up and his energy requirement is satisfied by the administration of glucose and normal saline, he probably suffers no harm. In many cases, however, especially in the case of patients who undergo operations on the stomach and intestines, the patient has been forced to curtail his food intake for weeks, or even months, before coming to the attention of

Family Dinner Celebrates

Event

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Glick was celebrated Easter day in their home in Circleville township, a family dinner being enjoyed at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Glick were married in Circleville, April 12, 1914, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Warner, E. High street. They have resided during their married life on the same farm in Circleville township. They have two children, Mrs. Richard Nickerson, of Fostoria and David of the home, and one grandchild, Martha Lou Nickerson.

Silver ribbons led to the chandelier from clusters of silver bells at each corner of the dinner table. A large bowl of colorful Easter flowers formed the centerpiece.

Family Dinner Celebrates Event

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Glick EARNEST WORKERS' CLASS, was celebrated Easter day in their home in Circleville township, a family dinner being enjoyed at the noon hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Glick were married in Circleville, April 12, 1914, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Warner, E. High street. They have resided during their married life on the same farm in Circleville township. They have two children, Mrs. Richard Nickerson, of Fostoria and David of the home, and one grandchild, Martha Lou Nickerson.

Silver ribbons led to the chandelier from clusters of silver bells at each corner of the dinner table. A large bowl of colorful Easter flowers formed the centerpiece.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Warner, Mr. and Mrs. William Weffler, Miss Mary Weffler, Miss Edith Dunkel and David Glick of the Circleville community; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder, Miss Mary Elizabeth Snyder of Kingston; Fred Gearhart of near Yellowbud and Mr. and Mrs. Glick of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson were unable to attend because of the illness of their daughter.

The Easter season of 1939 will go into the record book as one of the most successful in recent years as far as church attendance is concerned. Services during the entirety of Holy Week were largely attended, the climax coming Sunday when the auditorium of each of the city's churches was filled to

One of the city's pastors, who has seen many Easter seasons come and go, declared Monday: "This Easter season will be remembered by me for many years. It seemed that persons were thinking of their Church and their God in a manner highly pleasing to myself and to all other members of the clergy. My congregation showed its faith by hearty cooperation at all services conducted during the week. I am elated by the success of the season."

His expression was similar to their congregational leaders to plan programs during the Spring

The Easter season of 1939 will go into the record book as one of the most successful in recent years as far as church attendance is concerned. Services during the entirety of Holy Week were largely attended, the climax coming Sunday when the auditorium of each of the city's churches was filled to

One of the city's pastors, who has seen many Easter seasons come and go, declared Monday: "This Easter season will be remembered by me for many years. It seemed that persons were thinking of their Church and their God in a manner highly pleasing to myself and to all other members of the clergy. My congregation showed its faith by hearty cooperation at all services conducted during the week. I am elated by the success of the season."
